

TR - TEEN WOLF

INT. LIVING ROOM - DAY

JAKE walks in to see his dad, BILL, passed out on the couch.

BILL

Aww, man. What time is it?

JAKE

Time for you to find a new habit.
Jesus, did you drink everything in this house with alcohol in it?

BILL

Stopped at the rubbing alcohol.
Figured that was a desperate move.

JAKE

I'm sorry, Pops, but Mom moved on because of you. Because of this. So it's not like you continuing the legacy is going to bring her back.

BILL

I brought you up to be respectful.
I didn't bring you up to talk to me like this.

JAKE

You didn't bring me up at all- but she's gone, and you're here, and that stands for something. So I'm asking you, telling you that I need your help. I need you on your feet.

BILL

Yeah, for what? To help you with your physics homework for school? I manage a hardware store. I'm a simple man with simple values. You want something bigger than I am.

JAKE

You're the only man who can teach me control, because I'm changing.
Things are happening. And they've happened in this family before.

BILL

You're... you've... turned? How?
How do you know? Wait- did you tell you mother before she died?

JAKE

Doesn't matter. Only thing that does matter is that you help me before the next full moon. Or you might end up dead.